OUR BABY.

Cheeks of rose, tiny toes
Has our little baby;
Eyes of blue, fingers too,
Cunning all as may be.

Mouth so fair, skin so clear,
Just as soft as may be;
Bonny eyes, looking wise,
Such a precious baby.

Thou I love, sweetest dove
Darling little baby!
While I live, thee I'll give
Kisses warm as may be.

Crow and play all the day,
Happy little baby!
May your life, free from strife,
Pure as 'tis today be.

DIES OF WOUNDS

A special from Albemarle says that John Hodgins, the negro convict who shot J. C. Freeman, a guard, and wounded Chief of Police J. D. Love, died last night as the result of wounds. Hodgins opened fire on the officer when the capture was made and the chief returned the shots, four of them lodging in the negro's body.

BIBLE STUDY CONFERENCE

Dr. W. L. Potat opened the Bible study conference for the colleges of North Carolina at the opening session at Guilford College last night. His subject was "The Christian Program." A large representation is present.

LARGE NUMBER BOOKS FOR LIBRARY

With a nucleus of more than 250 new books donated at the reception last night, the Hickory Free Library undoubtedly is in a fair way to occupy a deserving place in the lives of the people of this city. Some valuable volumes have been turned over to the institution.

The reception last night was all that the most optimistic had hoped for. Several hundred persons came to the rooms during the evening, many brought volumes, and all brought interest—which the officers and directors appreciated almost as much. From 7:30 until 9:30 men, women and children made their way to the rooms, all bringing books or words of interest.

The ladies of Hickory had prepared for the occasion. The rooms were dressed in seasonal flowers, a victrola rendered selections from the great singers, and a warm welcome was extended every guest. In addition cream was served by the young ladies, and one was able to get more than a single cone, too. It was a splendid occasion in every way.

In the receiving line were Mrs. O. M. Royster, President J. J. Willard, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Joy, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Stanley, Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Ramsay, Mrs. Edgar Yoder, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McRorie, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Elliott.

At the register were Mrs. W. B. Menzies and Miss Ala Schenck and dispensing the refreshments were Misses Adele Kirkpatrick, Adelaide Johnston, Elizabeth McComb, Mary Field and Louise Jones.

KITCHEN CABINETS.

The board of trustees under the illusion that they could not do better, called the humble speaker to the chair of president and teacher. Because the work had reached that point rather than on account of what I was or did, this was near the beginning of the period of

II. The Enlargement and Strengthening of Lenoir College.

In the summer of 1901 with the help of Prof. W. H. Little, Prof. E. J. Sox and others the work was entered into with vigor and determination. For more than 14 years the battle has been waged with some show of success. Of this first faculty only Prof. Little and I remain—that is what is left of us—he having had one year and one summer change of work, I none.

By extensive, laborious personal canvassing, in which work Prof. Little has played a chief and most successful part, a large increase in attendance was secured and has been maintained. The standard of the college has been raised by enlarging and strengthening the faculty and the curriculum.

Today Mr. Richard Shuford of this city, an alumnus of Lenoir College, secured his M. A. degree in one year at U. N. C. and at the same time won the Bryan prize in economics, is president of the law class there.

Girls' Dormitory.

One evening in March, 1902, I called on the president of the board, the Rev. W. P. Gime, and urged the need of a girls' dormitory. He thought it impossible. Early next morning he came to my home and said it could be done. He had thought over it during the night. The plan was to borrow $5,000 and to find 20 business men willing to sign the notes, to let the income from room-rents pay the interest for five years and then ask our synod to pay for the building. The men were found and the building was erected that summer. At the end of five years in a meeting of the board, through the work and influence of Mr. J. M. Rhodes, president of the board, and Mr. J. H. C. Hitt, the $5,000 was raised in cash and private scholarships. Mr. Hitt said he had brought his check book along; he wanted to get free of that $5,000 debt.

The erection of Oakview Hall for girls was the first and most important step in the enlargement and strengthening of our college. We found that we could dare and do. It was the dawning of a new day.

It was found that a dormitory for boys was an imperative need if the college was to go forward. At first it was thought that a $5,000 building was as much as could be considered. For over a year there was talk and talk and some effort. Then the wheels began to turn. The idea had possessed the brethren. The Rev. W. J. Boger with some assistance by Mr. J. M. Rhodes, president of the board, did the canvassing for the funds. Highland Hall was erected; and the cost was nearer $20,000 than $5,000. There it stands capable of housing 100 students. Is that a step in the enlargement and strengthening of the college of which we are proud today?

Next we were sorely in need of a college church and services twice a Sunday for the students. As a result of the combined efforts of the congregation and our synod, there stands St. Andrews on the corner of the campus with its pastor, its congregation and its large Sunday school. Is that an asset of which to be proud?

Now the urgent need of a memorial endowment fund of $100,000 loomed large. The idea grew upon the brethren. The synod acted. The board moved. Considerable work was done. Returning from the funeral of the lamented Doctor Yoder in the spring of 1911 it occurred to College Field Secretary Miller that the imperatively needed science building could be secured quickly as a memorial to the departed brother. The matter was presented to the board. The board acted. The canvas was started by Rev. Mr. Miller. The whirlwind campaign was not sufficient. A general canvass was necessary. This was carried through successfully by the Rev. M. L. Pence. The Yoder Memorial Science building stands as the most significant piece of work ever accomplished by our people. Not a donation from outsiders but a contribution to the needs of the college by 1,510 of our loyal people. No subscriptions were larger than $100. It has illustrated the power of cooperation. This building with its excellent equipment has provided necessary rooms for the enlarged student body and contributed wonderfully to the standing and efficiency of the college.

Let us recall here that the first request to our college was made by a woman, Miss Eliza Rudisill, of Newton, N. C., a $700 scholarship, the income of which is to be used continually in the education of ministers—available in 1908; the next was an endowment bequest of $3,000 by Mrs. Eliza Hedrick, of Davidson county—available in 1905; the next a ministerial

Kindergarten to Open Monday, Sept. 27

I beg to announce to the public that I will open my kindergarten on Monday, September 27, for the coming season.

Every father and mother should think a moment as to what it will mean to their child to enter kindergarten and prepare itself to lay the foundation for a cultured, useful life, along the lines of how it has helped their lives to unfold in the image of their creator. You will never regret the day you have entered your child's name on the roll-call book of a kindergarten. Anyone who is interested in sending his child to the kindergarten will kindly telephone 28-J, or call at 1205 13th St. 9-23-1wk.
